Pentabus Theatre Company: Making from Scratch

Have you ever made a performance out of a real story?

This workshop will introduce you to the methods used in making original theatre. Working with a professional director you will explore stories from newspaper articles, people you've met and things you've seen as inspiration. You will learn new drama techniques and approaches, experiment with words, music, location and character as storytelling tools to create performance.

This practical workshop is for anyone wishing to learn about or gain new perspectives in making theatre for the stage and how to make a performance out of a real story.

Come along and connect with a leading Theatre Company and work with a professional director, plus the opportunity to network with other Drama teachers across Shropshire to share best practice and ideas.

Pentabus Theatre Company are based in Shropshire and have been producing high quality theatre and drama workshops for over 40 years. They believe that every person living in an isolated rural community has a right to exceptional theatre. Pentabus Young Company also offer workshops, masterclasses, work experience, mentorships and a Young Writers' Programme.
